ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE

-1881-

The ALEXANDRIA GAZZTTE, begun in 1799, is the oldest newspaper in the State, and the only daily published in Northern Virginia, It has survived, with few exceptions, all the public presses in America which saw with it the dawn of the nineteenth century. It lives, too, not in decay, but full of life and vigor, giving all the news, telling the truth without fear, favor or affection, trenching on the privacy of no man's home, but full to the brim with all public information, and giving daily honest judgments of public men and public measures.

It furnishes the news telegrams of the New York Associated Press and of Reuter's European agency, being, with but three exceptions, the only paper between Baltimore and Richmond that is thus connected with the great fountains of the world's nows

With the coming year all the long tried and improved methods of making a standard newspaper will be continued, with such additional facilities as past experience justifies the proprietor in believing will add to the capacity of the Gazette to serve its readers. It expects to render faithful service to the city, the state and the country by a candid criticism of men and events in the interest of the people of the Commonwealth of Virginia.

To meet all the demands upon it, the Gazette will be made a WASHINGTON and RICH-MOND NEWSPAPER, as well as an ALSX. ANDRIA JOURNAL. The Richmond and Washington news of past years has left little to improve, but yet greater effort will be made to insure absolute perfection in these departments,

The city of Alexandria will find as usual its daily history in each evening's issue, and the intelligence of that section of the Commonwealth which nature has bound to Alexandria by the curvature of its mountains or the courses of its rivers as well as that portion linked to us by the iron bands of railways, will be assiduously

The Business and Commercial columns of the Gazette will be filled with the earliest and most exact commercial news, edited with such painstaking care as will render an error, where even slight errors are dangerous, impossible.

The Cattle Markets of all the leading points of the world whose rates affect this market will be quoted, and regular statements of the Baltimore. Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria sales of cattle will appear.

The Flour, Grain and Produce movements will be noted daily, and the sales of the Alexandris and neighboring markets given with accuracy and dispatch. The Grocery and other markets will receive constant attention, and the money or stock markets of the country epitomized for its columns, full details being given to all stocks, &c. which find investors in this section of the country.

The advertising columns of the Gazette offer inducements which experience has shown to afford greater returns for a small investment than any other which can be roade.

ADVERTISING RATES.

It was not until more than (w) centuries after the lamous 5th of November that the idea of employing a fulminating process against the Chief of the State was adopted in France, where twice within two months an attempt was made to blow up Napoleon, at that if as First Consul. I wis in each instance on the occasion of v sining the opera that Napellon, according to the designs of his evemies, was to be blown to pieces. Io addition to the two attempts made upon the life of Napoleon I, it was in front of the Opera that the O. sini shells were thrown which so nearly disposed of Napoleon III, in the year 1857. It was benearh the cortios, too. in the old Opera in the Rue Richelieu, that the Due de Berri Was a s:ssinated. It Was intended to employ agains: Napoleon I. a destructive method of a mixed kind. Rockets and grenades were to be burled from various paris of the theatre into his box. But to insure his death conspirators armed with daggers and pistols were stationed in the corridor into which the box opened, with orders to shoot and stab him if, escaping the missiles, he attempted to make his way to the outer deors. The conspiracy, according to Napoleon himself, who told the story at St. Helens, was revealed by a captain The N.Y. Underwriters' Agency in the live. The informer having been brought before bim Napoleon at first suggested to the Prefect of Police that he should not be allowed to go to the opera that evening. It was decid ed, however, that his absence would awaken the suspicions of the other conspirators, and everything was allowed to go on as though the plot had not been discovered.

The sentinels outside Napoleon's box were ordered to let no one approach who had not the password, issued immediately before the Consui's departure for the opera; for it was known that a certain number of conspirators had taken up their position in the corridor to extinguish the lights at the moment when the rockets were to be fired and the shells thrown. The opera of the evening was "Les Horaces," and the signal for ac ion was to be the delivery of a pas sage in which the Horatii swear to conquer or Then all the lights were to be pat out, and apart from the shells intended specially for the Emperer fireworks were to be cast indisimigately about the theatre, while the general confusion was to be increased by cries of 'Fire!" The leaders of the plot, like the claquers of the present day, had attended the rehearsal of the opers so as to note the cue given to them for their grand demonstration and attack. But at the performance the Prefer ure of Police was also largely represented, and there were sitogether upward of two hundred persons in the theatre who were paying no attention to the music except with a view to a particular quartet, in which the old Horatius opened the pice; by calling upon his sons to swear 'que le dernier de vous sera mort ou vaiequer.' The instrumental introduction to the quartet was, however, the signal for action chosen by the police, and before the singing began the conspirators were all in custody in of the above goods of Choice Brands for Feb-one of the vestibules of the theatre. The second attempt on a grand scale against the life of Napoleon was executed two months later, on the 24.h of December, when on his way to the Opera he was made the mark of an "internal machine." Haydn's "Greation" was to be given, and the performance had already commenced. when during the soft adagio of the introduction the dull report of an explosion was heard. Immediately afterward Napoleon cotered his bex, attended by the principal mem bers of his staff. Josephine's love of dress had saved him. As she was getting into the carriage she thought of making some change in her toilette, and going back to her apartments or a few minutes, caused a delay but for which Bonsparte and herself would, following the other carriages, have passed before the internal machine at the moment of its ex; losiou. To pass to Louis Philippe's reigo, the most remarkable thing in connection with Fiesoni's crime was the entire absence of policical, or in deed any other apparent motive. Fie chi was neither a reput lieso nor a legitimis; nor had he any personal gricvance against the King whose life he had resolved to take. Nathios but an insane love of notoriety seems to have impelled him toward the commission of the erime. He devoted himself to the unastruc tion of a so called "infernal machine" -a sort of mitraill use, with no fewer than twenty five barrels. Fleschi mounted this species of bat tery in the third floor of a bouse which over looked that por loa of the Boulevarus along which Louis Phi ippe was to pass after holding a review in commemoration of the fifth anniversary of the events which had placed him on the throne.

The construction of the machine must have cost a considerable amount of money; and it appeared at the trial that he had been supplied with fueds by several work nen his accomplioss. On June 28 1836 as the King, or rather the King's staff, passed to front of the machine, it was exploded and with terrible results, for Mortier, chief of the staff, and several officers teil mortally wounded. The King, however, escaped with but slight injuries occasioned by the rearing and plunging or his horse. Fieschi imm distely after the explosion took to fight, and wounded as he was by the bursting of one of the barrels, escaped into an adjoining court yard, where he was arrested and taken first to prison and afterward to a hospital. Cured of his wounds he was brought to trial and sentenced to death; and his demeanor throughout the examination went far to show that the origin of his insane and infamous attempt was, indeed, nothing more than an absurd longing to become known to the world, in no matter what character. He assumed in court the attitudes and gestures of a stage brigand, and made point of kiesing his hand from time to time and as often as possible to his mistress, who made signs to him in return.

Some 20 years later, in 1857. Paris was again the scene of an attempt to destroy the chief of the State by a means which deserved quite as much as the machine invented by Fieschi the epither of "infernal." Felice Orsini made his attack of "infernal." Felice Orsini made his attack upon Napoleon III. with hand shells containing a new and terrible fulinating powder composed by himself. Orsini was a born conspirator.

His father had conspired before him, and the young Orsini was enabled by his father to take part in various plots before he had attained the age of reason or even of manhood. Oreini had three associates, named Pieri, Rudio and Gomez. The conspirators remained some time in Paris preparing the details of their scheme. At last, on the evening of January 14, 1858, as the Emperor and Empress were approaching the Grand Op ra three shells were thrown under their carrisge, which, exploding, killed or wounded a large number of persons belonging to the imperial suite. Orsini, Pieri and Rudio were sentenced to death. Gomez, however, eccaped with hard labor for life, and at the intercession of the Empress the death penalty was also commuted in the case of Rudio. Oraini went to the scaffold 1 w. 1 m | 3 m. 6 m. 1 yr. calm and courageous, and only a few days be-fore his execution he addressed a letter to the Emperor Napoleon exhorting him to liberate Italy. Whether or not Orsni's disbolical act had any effect upon the Emperor's decision, certain it is that a year afterward Napoleon III.
